- d. translate and convey academic concepts or regulations related to university programs to students for the smooth running of student studies.
- (2) Students are required to prepare a study plan at the beginning of each semester in accordance with the curriculum stages and register a Study Plan Card (KRS) based on the provisions regarding the study load that can be taken per semester, and obtain approval from the Academic Supervisor by taking into account career plans.
- (3) Arrangements for taking courses in each semester are guided by the 2022 UC curriculum implementation guidelines.
- (4) Students can make changes to KRS no later than the end of the 2nd week, starting lectures begin.
- (5) Students who do not complete the KRS within the time specified at the beginning of each semester will be considered inactive or can be called on forced leave, and will be given a first warning letter.
- (6) If this is done for two consecutive semesters, the student concerned will be given a final warning to determine his/her student status. If within a certain specified time, the student concerned does not provide a statement, then the person concerned is declared to have stopped studying at UC.
- (7) For undergraduate students, the study load for each semester is determined as follows: a. For new students in the first year, it is mandatory to take all semester 1 and 2 courses with a study load per semester of 18 credits. Specifically for the undergraduate medical study program, the study load for semester 2 is 20 credits, for the professional study program of Medical Education, the study load for semester 1 and semester 2 is 22 credits.
- b. Semester 3 and thereafter, each student can take a study load in accordance with the applicable curriculum in accordance with the provisions of the course structure in the curriculum and is determined based on the Semester Achievement Index (IPS) obtained in the previous semester, with the following limitations:
- IPS $\geq$ 2.00 study load is set at 12 credits
IPS 2.01 – 2.50 maximum study load 15 credits
IPS 2.51 – 3.00 maximum study load 18 credits
IPS 3.01 – 3.50 maximum study load 21 credits
IPS 3.51 – 4.00 maximum study load 24 credits
- c. If IPS has not fulfilled the study load limit according to the curriculum provisions, students can submit a request for an increase up to the mandatory curriculum load limit with the recommendation of the study program.
- d. If the IPS is $\geq$ 3.51 and the student wants to increase the study load, the student can submit a request for an increase in excess of the mandatory curriculum load limit, with the study program recommendation. e.
- The amount of IPS obtained by students is calculated using the following formula

This:

$$IPS = \frac{\sum (K_i \times N_i)}{\sum K_i}$$

K: the number of credits for each course;

N: numerical value of the evaluation results for each course;
